Government Officials Preparing to Take Drastic Step of Seizing Ships Disregarding Dry Rules

ADVANCE NOTICE TO BE GIVEN IF REGULATIONS ARE ENFORCED

State Department, Treasury and Prohibition Officials Confer Over Action

WASHINGTON — The increasing number of foreign ships which are docking in American waters with more liquor than permitted under the supreme court ruling has brought government officials to the point of considering application of the provisions of the Volstead act for seizure of foreign vessels.

An announcement of the government's decision on the question has been made but officials are said to feel that the present situation cannot be tolerated much longer. If a decision is reached to promulgate a new treasury regulation, putting into effect the seizure requirements of the Volstead act, which is said to have been drafted, adequate notice will be given to foreign governments, it is understood.

The situation has been considered at a series of conferences participated in by Secretary Hughes and other state department officials, Acting Secretary Gilbert of the treasury, and Assistant Secretary Moss in charge of customs, Commissioner Blair of the internal revenue bureau, and Commissioner Haynes, Assistant Commissioner Jones, and Chief Counsel Britt of the Prohibition unit.

Reluctance to invoke the enforcement law's ship seizure provision is explained by officials as being due to a desire to avoid serious international disputes, and to give the shipping lines a chance to determine in their courts whether they have a right to bring into American waters to voyage liquors under the seals of their governments. No test case has been brought, and it is believed that the seizure of a ship would result in an early judicial decision on the problem.

Canopic Comes in Wet

NEW YORK.—The White Star liner Canopic arrived Thursday with "surplus medical liquor" under seal. This supply consisted of 12 half gallons of spirits, 18 7-12 gallons of wine, 1 1-2 gallons of liquors, 5½ cases of ale, 10 cases of lager and 30 bottles of cider.

Not a drop of liquor remained in the bar after the ship crossed the three-mile limit, passengers obligingly disposing of what little had been left.

Holland Firm Complies

LONDON.—The Holland America shipping line has decided to comply with the requirements of the American prohibition law so far as its ships are concerned, it is announced in a Central News dispatch from Amsterdam Thursday.

280 PERSONS ARE EXAMINED AT FREE CHEST CLINIC HERE

Fifty-three Cases Diagnosed as Tuberculosis; Six Cases Suspicious

MANY OTHER AILMENTS ARE FOUND IN EXAMINATIONS

Dr. T. L. Harrington Writes Interesting Article on Work

By DR. T. L. HARRINGTON

The free chest clinic conducted by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association closed Wednesday night at 6 o'clock after a very successful three-day session. A total of 280 cases were examined with some of the findings as follows: 53 were diagnosed as tuberculous and out of this number 9 were classified as presumptive, 6 suspicious (a condition where the doctors felt there was enough evidence to indicate that care was necessary but not enough to chart definitely), 8 quiescent, 6 with glandular involvement, 24 with healed lesions.

Findings other than tuberculosis were: 54 with diseased or suspicious tonsils, 54 with enlarged glands 102 with simple goiter, 15 with organic heart disease, 20 children more than 10 percent underweight, 29 with pulmonary or bronchial trouble (non-tuberculous), 168 were referred to their family physicians for attention.

Not Only T. B. Test

Most people think that these clinics are solely for the purpose of discovering cases of tuberculosis. Long ago the physicians actively connected with the campaign against tuberculosis learned that in fighting this disease it was necessary to combat all diseases and conditions that lower the vitality of the body. Decayed teeth, infected gums, diseased tonsils, chronic bronchitis, and a number of other conditions lower the resistance of the patient and prepare the soil for the growth of the tubercular germ. When the patient is run down and easily tired, a condition which is often present following an attack of "flu" for example, active tuberculosis is likely to develop.

Since beginning these clinics the physicians examining for the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association have made a total of more than 24,000 examinations. Of this number about 18 percent were found to have tuberculosis in some form, 24 had badly decayed teeth and infected gums, 20 percent had enlarged, diseased or suspicious tonsils, 10 percent had goiters and 5 1-2 percent had organic heart disease.

Heart Disease Cases

The study of the cases of organic heart disease proves very interesting. The majority of growing boys and girls suffering from organic heart disease have had diseased tonsils and undoubtedly in most of the cases the infection was carried by the blood from the tonsils to the heart. A number of boys and girls with a leaking heart were found to be members of some athletic association, usually a basket-ball team. In each case the patient was instructed to give up all athletic contests and limit the exercise taken to walking and some of the less strenuous games.

The study of these clinics in relation to insurance is very interesting. The officials of a number of insurance companies doing business in Wisconsin have stated that they have been saved many dollars because some of their policy holders suffering from early tuberculosis were placed in sanatoriums where they recovered and continued to pay the premiums on the policy for a number of years saving the company from paying the face of the policy to the widows and orphans.

State Has 19 Sanatoria

Wisconsin has 19 sanatoria for the treatment of tuberculosis with a total capacity of about 1400 beds. Since the establishment of the free chest clinics it has been found that these institutions supported by the taxpayers of the state and of the various counties, have had fewer beds vacant than they had before clinics were held. The people have been educated to the value of sanatorium treatment and many of the early cases of tuberculosis have been discovered at the clinic. "Early discovery means early recovery." This trite saying contains a truth that is appreciated by many in Wisconsin.

Save Many Lives

The intensive campaign against tuberculosis and other preventive diseases conducted by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association has resulted in the saving of many lives. Probably no other organization in the state returns to the people a more valuable service for the contributions made during the annual sale of the penny Christmas Seal. The local Anti-Tuberculosis Association in La Crosse has been active and earnest in its health work. The La Crosse clinics are sponsored by the local

CONSPIRACY CHARGE AGAINST COAL MEN DROPPED IN COURT

Indictments Against Mine Operators, Union Officials and Mining Companies Dismissed

COAL COMMISSION WARNS HARD COAL MEN AGAINST SUSPENSION

Declares Public Will Not Stand for Halt in Operations

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.— Indictments against 226 coal operators, officials of the United Mine Workers and mining companies returned February 25, 1921, charging conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust law were dismissed in United States district court Thursday by Judge A. B. Anderson, upon motion of Attorney General Daugherty.

Careful investigation, Mr. Daugherty told the court, strongly supported the protests of the defendants that many of the things complained of were in no small measure due to the efforts of government officials during the war to bring about more intensive co-operation between the operators, miners and railroads in the production and transportation of coal.

The attorney general added that if the case came to trial "it would be difficult if not impossible" for the government to rebut the claim that the things charged were "the natural result, in a great measure," of the acts of the government officials.

Conditions agreed upon between the operators and miners, the court further was informed, "were the source of official action on the part of the council of national defense, the department of justice, the federal trade commission, the director general of railroads, and indeed the then president of the United States, in an effort which was claimed, on their part to be for the purpose of stimulating the production of coal."

Coal Men Warned

WASHINGTON—Public sentiment "will tolerate no suspension of anthracite coal supply this year," the federal coal commission today informed the convention of union miners delegates now in session at Scranton, Pa., considering new wage demands.

In a letter signed by John Hays Hammond, the commission's chairman, the miners were urged to seek an understanding with other operators' representatives, and particularly, the convention was asked to leave all questions open for negotiations in committee.

"The commission hopes that prompt and satisfactory response received to its suggestions in the matter of the bituminous contract will be repeated in the negotiations about to be undertaken in the making of an anthracite contract," Mr. Hammond's letter said, referring to the necessity existing in anthracite for making of new wage contracts August 31.

HARDING PARTY IN IDAHO AFTER VISIT OF 2 DAYS IN UTAH

President Invades Home State of Senator Borah, Foe of Administration Policies

TRIP THROUGH NEW NATIONAL PARK MAKES DEEP IMPRESSION

Presidential Special Makes Trip Over New Rail Extension

ON BOARD PRESIDENT HARDING'S SPECIAL TRAIN.—By The Associated Press. — President Harding Thursday went into Idaho, the home of Senator Borah, who often-times has disapproved and sometimes denounced administration policies.

Because of the attitude of Senator Borah toward the Harding administration, there was particular interest in the manner of the reception accorded the president. There also was especial interest in the nature of the two addresses the president has promised to make in the state, one at noon, at Pocatello and the other late in the day at Idaho Falls. Both of the speeches will be extemporaneous.

Borah to Greet President

The president will not visit Boise, Senator Borah's home city, but word was received aboard the presidential train that Senator Borah planned to greet Mr. Harding on his arrival at Pocatello and accompany him to Idaho Falls.

The program for the president's stop at Pocatello in addition to the address, includes an automobile tour of the city and review of the school children. After speaking from the rear platform on arriving at Idaho Falls, the president plans to tour the city and then inspect a model irrigation district.

The presidential party crossed over into Idaho after two full days in Utah, a longer period than has been spent in any other state. The visit to Southern Utah and to Zion National park, the newest of the nation's playgrounds, made a deep impression on both the president and Mrs. Harding.

Spends Wonderful Day

"We have had a very wonderful day today—wonderful in many ways," the chief executive said in addressing citizens in Cedar City Wednesday night after returning from the 125-mile trip into Zion park. "We have come to have a new love for the beautiful; we have found a new charm in the marvelous works of nature; we have seen exhibited the results of her convulsive moods and then in the canyons and gorges and other aspects of Utah's magnificent scenery we have seen the effect of her relentless force operating throughout the ages. With it all, I think we have come to have, perhaps, even a greater reverence for the creator, a new wonderment at His purposes, and a new curiosity to know when we ourselves are going to understand fully God's purposes."

Many See First Train

If it was a wonderful day for the president, it was equally wonderful to the people of Southern Utah, some of the younger of whom saw their first passenger train when the presidential special arrived at Cedar City over the just completed extension of the Union Pacific from Lund to that city. Many, including even the pioneers who went into the desert and mountain region years ago, saw in Mr. Harding the first president of the United States they every had seen.

They gathered around from miles into the little villages built in oases claimed from the desert by irrigation and with waving flags, presentations of flowers and fruit and singing of songs, greeted the presidential party as it passed into Zion Park. Most of them were still along the roadside as the party motored back to Cedar City late in the day, singing "God Be With You Till We Meet Again." The greatest day in their lives had come and gone.

Borah Meets Party

POCATELLO, Idaho. — Senator Borah, who has from time to time criticised the administration world court proposal as presented to the senate last February, met the president at Cache Junction, Utah, and in a statement to newspapermen said he felt the position of the president as set forth in his St. Louis speech, was generally agreeable to the people of the country as well as to the republican party.

"As I understand the president's position," said Senator Borah, "he believes the league of nations is dead, so far as any possibility of the participation of the United States is concerned. I am in entire agreement with the conclusion of Mr. Harding that any world court in which the United States may join can not be connected with the league of nations in any way whatsoever."

BLAINE VETOES GASOLINE TAX

SENATE FAILS IN ATTEMPT TO OVER RIDE VETO

Governor's Action in Rejecting Measure Attacked by Members of Highway Committee

BLAINE OUTLINES ISSUES OF CAMPAIGN IN VETO MESSAGE

Executive Takes Occasion to Renew Attacks on the Newspapers

MADISON, Wis.—The senate refused, 17 to 16, to override Governor Blaine's veto of the gasoline tax bill Thursday, following an attack on the governor's action by highway committee members.

Senator John Cashman, chairman of the joint highway committee, declared that the veto was unjustified and would "shoot to pieces the Wisconsin highway program for the next two years." He said that the gasoline tax was not a sales tax, but rather a tax on the use of the road.

A similar stand was taken by Senator C. B. Casperson, another progressive republican, who asserted that through his veto the governor had denied counties any return from the state for highway work. He pointed out that nearly all county boards favored a tax on gasoline.

After Senator Huber had defended the governor's action on the ground that it meant a halt to what he said was an extravagant road building program, Senator E. T. Ridgway declared that the "inconsistency of the governor in his action is hardly imaginable."

"Here he has advocated a shift in the tax burden from property to other forms of tax and when an effort is made to cause this shift, he vetoes the bill," the senator said.

Outlines Campaign Issues

In his message vetoing the highway committee gasoline tax bill, the governor accompanied his disapproval of the measure by a long message which he used to lay down political issues on which the next campaign in Wisconsin will be fought, according to his expression. Announcement was made in the message that executive approval would be given the committee bill providing for a graduated license fee based upon weight.

The governor based his veto of the gasoline tax on the ground that the measure was in effect a "sales tax," and that it would produce more revenue than needed to construct and maintain the state trunk highway system. He took occasion to charge the press of the state with mis-representation on the tax issue. There was reference to economies practiced by the present administration, together with statements outlining political issues for the forthcoming campaign.

Gas Levy Is Sales Tax

Referring to the gasoline tax bill itself, the governor declared that "it is not a privilege tax for the privilege of selling gasoline. It is a sales tax—a tax on property. It is contended that gasoline measures the use of the highways. That is true, and it is also true that the less improved highway requires more power in propelling an automobile, and therefore requires more gas."

Opposition to the method of distributing funds raised by the gasoline tax was expressed by Governor Blaine who expressed the opinion that the tax "ought to be distributed according to the total mileage of highways," rather than upon a small portion.

Measure Discriminating

"The difficulties involved in the collection of this tax are many," the governor continued in his message. "The tax is capable of evasion. It will involve the same experience as the federal government had with the tax on ice cream and ice cream cones. It creates discrimination between users for the reason that those accessible to the use of gasoline transported from without the state will escape.

"I am opposed to imposing upon the use of automobiles this additional tax proposed by this bill, especially when it adds about $3,000,000 to the tax burdens, that I deem unnecessary and unjustifiable, as I hereinafter point out."

After stating these reasons for a veto, the governor turned to an attack on newspapers.

Attacks Newspapers

"I notice," he said, "that those newspapers in Wisconsin that have

AUTOMOBILE WEIGHT TAX BILL SIGNED BY BLAINE THURSDAY

Committee Measure Putting Graduated License Fee Into Effect Jan. 1 is Approved

CALDWELL PRIVILEGE TAX BILL REJECTED BY THE ASSEMBLY

Author Recommends Death of Measure Calling for Gas Tax

MADISON, Wis.—The highway committee bill establishing a graduated license fee for automobiles based upon weight, to replace the present $19 flat fee, was signed by Governor Blaine Thursday. This measure goes into effect January 1, 1924.

Under provisions of the new licensing law, automobile owners will pay a tax ranging from $10 to $26 on their machines, according to weight. From application of this license tax $6,000,000 will be raised annually for construction and maintenance of a 10,000-mile state trunk highway system.

The measure was a companion to the gasoline tax proposal vetoed by the governor.

Caldwell Bill Killed

The last of the highway tax bills pending before the legislature was killed by assembly Thursday. It was the Caldwell bill, levying a privilege tax, gas tax and retaining the license fee on motor vehicles. Assemblyman Caldwell moved for indefinite postponement of his bill declaring it was useless to pass it in view of Governor Blaine's action in vetoing the gasoline tax bill.

The Holly bill prohibiting the sale of oleomargarine also met death in the lower house, 53 to 24. Another bill killed was that by the public welfare committee changing the time of assembling of the legislature from January of odd numbered years to December of even numbered years. An amendment restricting legislative sessions to ninety days also met defeat.

Signs Guard Bill

An appropriation of $235,000 annually for the Wisconsin national guard was made available Thursday with Governor Blaine's signature to the guard appropriation bill. This amount represents a cut from $600,000 annually, which has been spent by the state's military organization during the past two years.

Engross Normal Bill

After two hours' debate the assembly engrossed the Normal school appropriation bill, 63 to 13. Most of the debate centered around the finance committee recommendation of $175,000 for a new site and buildings for the Oshkosh School, the assembly finally rejecting the recommendation. Amendments adopted included provisions for raising the appropriation through a surtax and for charging non-resident students a yearly fee of $80.

SOLONS HARD AT WORK TO CLEAR SLATE

Sine Die Adjournment July 15th to Give Governor Time to Consider Bills is Present Plan

NUMEROUS TAX PROPOSALS ARE KILLED AT WEDNESDAY SESSIONS

Senate Determined to Kill all Proposals for Surtax Amendments

MADISON, Wis.—By The Associated Press.—The Wisconsin legislature has settled down to hard work, determined to close its state of business and go home before the end of the week. Sine die adjournment, according to present plans, will take place July 15, giving the governor two weeks in which to act upon bills passed at last minute meetings.

Tax bills were killed on every hand during the late afternoon and evening sessions of Wednesday. Following death during the day of the La Follette progressive income tax revision scheme, the senate voted down two bills providing for repeal of the $5,000,000 personal property tax offset to the income tax, it killed six attempts at increased exemptions under the income tax, killed the Severson bill for repeal of reciprocal taxation of income, and then passed the Johnson bill providing for a $500 exemption of homestead improvements, as well as adopting the Czerwinski resolution providing for an interim committee investigation of taxation.

Kill Tax Probe Plan

The assembly during its night session let down on the income surtax program it has been sponsoring, long enough to pass the $7,000,000 appropriation to the board of control without a surtax attached. Little attention was given the Czerwinski interim tax committee plan by the lower house. It was killed, 60 to 11, after being described as the senate's chief alibi.

Senators said that they were prepared to follow the example set Wednesday night with the killing of the surtax amendment to the Schumann bill, appropriating $1,000,000 for bovine tuberculosis eradication. All surtaxes, they declared, will meet a like fate, despite any threats by the assembly and governor to refuse sanction for appropriations to the University of Wisconsin and normal schools.

Senate Ignores Threats

All threats of the lower house and of the executive were ignored by the senate, members of which expressed the opinion that appropriation bills will go into effect, or continuing appropriations be utilized, without enactment of any income tax or surtax. They declare that there will be no change in the Wisconsin taxing system as a result of the present legislature.

All hope for unemployment insurance legislation at the present session ended last night with a 17 to 16 vote of the senate against an interim investigation of the subject. There was no direct vote on the issue of the job insurance itself.

The assembly at its night meeting finally passed and sent to the governor the Quick bill providing for junior college courses in a limited number of Wisconsin high schools.

Teacher Pensions Safe

An effort by Senator Severson to do away with the continuing appropriation to the Wisconsin National guard was killed by the senate, 20 to 13. Should this measure have passed the guard would have been required to seek an appropriation at each legislature.

Wisconsin's teachers' insurance and retirement system established by the 1921 legislature, is to remain in effect as a result of senate action killing without a roll-call the Caldwell bill providing for repeal of the pension law. This measure had passed the assembly.

Both houses are running at top speed in order to clean up business before Friday night.

DULUTH, Minn.—The new $3,000,000 freight terminal at this city, was formally opened Wednesday night. The new terminal company, headed by A. Miller McDougal, son of the late Captain Alexander McDougal, veteran shipping man and financier, will operate a fleet of barges from this city to New York.

COURT RESTRICTION HANDICAPS JUSTICE CLAIMS DANE JURIST

Judge Stevens Deplores Tying up of Courts With Complicated System of Procedure

JANESVILLE, Wis.—Courts are tied with rules of practice and procedure imposed upon them by the public acting through legislatures and their ability to administer even-handed justice is handicapped on this account, Judge E. Ray Stevens of Dane county circuit court declared Thursday, speaking at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Bar association at Janesville.

"We live in a time when there is no closed season for lawyers and courts," Judge Stevens said. "When one goes gunning for the bench and the bar he is at liberty to use any weapon that suits his fancy and there is no bag limit.

"The lawyers of Wisconsin should pause to ask themselves; why is it that from Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson and Elihu Root and Chief Justice Taft down to the curb stone critic of governmental agencies there has come the demand for a simpler, less technical, less complicated, less antiquated legal procedure that will enable the courts to administer speedy and even-handed justice.

"Experience of more than twenty years upon the trial bench in Wisconsin has given me the deep seated conviction that, so long as our courts are compelled to work with existing legal and judicial machinery, they cannot in all cases administer such speedy and even-handed justice—a deep seated conviction that there is need for change in the organization of our courts and in our rules of practice and procedure and that, until such change is made, the administration of the law will be justly subject to criticism, but not by any means to all of the criticism that has been current in recent years."

Judge Stevens declared that the code of 1856 was enacted in the belief that the way to improve the administration of justice was through a legislative code but that the same criticism is still heard.

He pointed out that rules of procedure must be made flexible to meet individual cases and that they must be readily changed when it becomes imperative. He said that the body best fitted to make such changes is the body that uses them every day.

"The legislature is no better qualified to make the working tools of the courts than are the courts qualified to prescribe rules of procedure for the legislature," he declared.

Legislatures fail to make needed changes in court procedure not because they are not interested in the subject but because they do not understand needs, he continued.

"The present day criticism of our administration of justice constitutes a call to service on the part of the lawyers and judges of Wisconsin. The members of our profession have never failed to respond to the call to service. They have never hesitated to sacrifice their time and energy when public service demands such sacrifice. They did not hesitate to give their lives when their country called. They will not be found wanting in this new call to service," he concluded.

Wisconsin High

THE ACTION of the Wisconsin assembly in adopting a resolution providing for an investigation of the Wisconsin high school can do no harm, since the investigation is to be conducted by the Board of Regents of the state university. Indeed, it is probable that Wisconsin high school authorities would insist that the charges made public against it in the resolution be threshed out.

It is too bad, however, that those who framed the resolution did not find a happier method of stating the case. The resolution sets up as facts what, thus far, are merely accusations. It states as a matter of knowledge that the things are true which the investigation would disclose either as true or as false, according to the evidence. It would have been more fair had the assertions been presented as allegations, subject to testimony.

The charge that the Wisconsin high school authorities object to inspection is something of a surprise, no doubt. However, the reason for it is made apparent in the first paragraph of the resolution. An attempt was here made to set up a model high school. It was to be, in a sense, something of a laboratory. Improvement in high school methods was to be worked out for the advantage of other high schools. We can see no objection whatever to the inspection of this high school, but plainly, were the inspection to be developed into some form of coercion or interference that would hamper the efforts of the Wisconsin high school authorities in setting new paces in high school education, the result of inspection would be worse than a total loss.

We are not in a position to say that there is nothing at all in these charges. However, those who have attended the annual expositions of the Wisconsin high school know that substantial things have been accomplished. The outstanding fact was that the students' knowledge was not merely theoretical. They learned to use and to demonstrate the use of their knowledge. Mental maturity displayed by students in explaining their work to hundreds of visitors this year was positively astonishing. We are profoundly impressed with the belief that by and large the Wisconsin high school experiment has been a valuable investment in education, and that if what has been achieved there can be passed on to other high schools, the quality of education in Wisconsin will be distinctly advanced. It would be most unfortunate were the essential accomplishments of the Wisconsin high school to be lost or damaged because, if that be true, it is open to criticism in some details of administration.

The Battle Royal

PRESIDENT HARDING stakes wet New York State against the dry middle-west. He calls the New York repealer "nullification," and throws down the gauntlet to Governor Al Smith, democratic presidential aspirant on a raft.

Politicians are guessing these days whether a majority of American states are prepared to "flout the law we make." It is predicted that, with a strict enforcement platform, the president would lose New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Illinois to Governor Smith. Ohio, Wisconsin, Missouri and perhaps California would be close. With the solid south to start with, democrats may be impelled to take the gamble, especially as the dry appeal of the republicans might fail to win some of the dry agricultural states in the face of displeasure entertained there with the Harding railroad program.

There is in all this a grave danger to the prohibition enforcement program, to which Lloyd George refers as a daring experiment in attacking one of the world's "greatest evils." Many drys will vote against President Harding for reasons which outweigh their prohibition convictions. His defeat, even in the face of great national prosperity, is possible. Were that to happen, the election results would be pointed to as national repudiation of prohibition. Where a candidate is lost in a contest involving a number of issues, it is possible to attribute his defeat to any of them.

Such an outcome, of course, would be far from conclusive. Indeed, it would seem incredible that a majority of American citizens would deliberately vote to violate the constitution. But the stakes are laid, and friends of prohibition will do well to prepare for the hardest fight of their lives. The first step should be to oppose with every resource the nomination of a wet democratic ticket.

Solution

POWERFUL A. C. Bedford, chairman of the board of directors of Standard Oil of N. J., says: "The world is suffering because of some mistakes committed in making the Treaty of Versailles, which places too much dependence upon political considerations, too little upon insuring that men should be able to earn bread."

In other words, the solution of the problems arising from the war is a matter of economics. The politicians have failed at the job and would keep on wrangling, without material results, as long as they live. Business men will take the job out of their hands. Stinnes has started, forming a European steel trust. Dollars are not "patriotic," but get along amiably regardless of origin."

Evolution

AN EASTERN clergyman offers $1000 to "any Biblical infidel" who will produce one single fact proving the materialistic evolution of man out of a lower order of species.

The "Biblical infidel" might boomerang the offer.

Nothing can be absolutely proved. In the last analysis, it gets down to a matter of faith. Einstein theoretically "proves" that parallel lines meet if indefinitely prolonged. It has also been "proved" by higher mathematicians, that two plus two do NOT equal four—exactly.

Failed

AUSTRALIAN government starts to restrict and eventually to abandon "government participation in commercial and industrial enterprises." Don't tell this to a socialistic friend, as it might give him heart failure.

Government harness factories, lime mills, clothing mills and so on will be liquidated. Australian government activities soon will be confined to public utilities and railroads—and successfully, as proved by Australian experiments.

Praying

IS PRAYER more effective than the bug-gun? The governor of South Carolina thinks so. He called upon the people of his state to unite in prayer for Divine aid in fighting the boll weevil. Megalomaniacs will sneer. However, God sent the boll weevil. Prayer to Him is logical—and the scientists have failed wretchedly.

Rose Mary and the Grouch

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Rose Mary Wood glanced disconsolately around the boarding house table. Sunday night supper was always a nightmare of loneliness to her when she did not go home to Arrowton for the week-end. Every one had gone excepting grouchy Mr. Fenn at the other end of the long table. He was moodily eating stewed prunes, and regarding with a baleful eye the silver basket of ginger cookies that adorned the board.

She was nibbling a cookie and drinking her tea—prolonging the return to her small lonely room, or the alternative, church. At home they always went to church before supper.

A deep voice boomed through the silence.

It was the voice of the "grouch," as the young people called him. "You are not going to church this evening?" he inquired.

"I cannot make up my mind," replied the startled Rose Mary.

"Dr. Fletcher is preaching tonight—I am going—perhaps you——" he was standing now, and Rose Mary found that he was blushing a little. "He would be very good-looking if his mustache was shaved off," she was thinking.

"Perhaps you——" repeated Mr. Fenn, politely.

"Oh, thank you, I would," gasped Rose Mary as she hurriedly got up. "I will be ready in a minute."

She ran lightly up the stairs to her room while the grouchy Mr. Fenn wiped his brow with an immaculate handkerchief. He had lived five and thirty years, and he had never asked a girl to go anywhere, but he had felt sorry for shy Rose Mary Wood, with her demure ways and soft voice; she was quite different from the bold young things he was always meeting.

As Rose Mary flitted down the stairs in her pretty dark brown suit, with a soft brown feather curling over the brim of her little hat, she was humming a little tune.

She knew that old Mrs. Laidlaw was sitting within her unlighted room watching whoever passed in the halls, she had met Miss Pussy Brownlee, and she knew that both old ladies would watch her going from over the banisters.

She found Julian Fenn standing near the front door, tall, dignified, well dressed and very correct.

He smiled as he held the door open and Rose Mary decided that he was nice looking in spite of the clipped mustache, and when they reached the sidewalk, she discovered that he was most entertaining. In the church they were observed by a number of people who gathered daily about the boarding house table.

"Let us walk home by way of the postoffice so that I may post a letter," suggested Rose Mary, so they crossed the square, passed the town hall and sauntered through the shopping center of the small town. The letter mailed, they returned, gazing into the shop windows and talking like old acquaintances.

"Isn't that charming?" cried Rose Mary, as they paused before a window displaying a living room completely furnished.

"Solid comfort," agreed Mr. Fenn. "See that stuffed rocker—fancy a winter's night, a book and a pipe?"

"I couldn't fancy that," laughed Rose Mary, "but the darling colonial work table; see the knitting basket, and the little chair before the fireplace, that is my cozy corner."

"You may have the corner by the fire, and I will keep the seat by the lamp and smoke my pipe," said the grouch amiably. Their glances met for a fleeting instance, and Rose Mary blushed beautifully.

"I must go home," she said a little breathlessly, "window-shopping is delightful, but I won't want to get up and go to work in the morning."

"You are an office neighbor of mine, too," remarked Julian as they went along.

"Oh, are you in the Equitable building, too?"

"Fourth floor—just across the airshaft from your window."

"Why, I have never seen you there." Mr. Fenn might have told her that he had often looked at her brown head bent over her desk, but he did not want to frighten this shy little brown bird. He had loved her for some time before he realized it, and it was only her presence in the boarding house that made him cling to his bachelor suite.

A few days afterward Rose Mary met him in the corridor of the office building where she worked.

"I am going to lunch," he remarked. "May I take you along in my car?"

Rose Mary went with him. When the other boarders saw Rose Mary alighting they smiled at one another. Miss Pussy said that Mr. Fenn had bought the car to take a "certain young lady" out.

The other girls, who had called Julian an old "grouch," changed their minds and smiled winningly at him. But for all the good it did, they might just as well have gone out and smiled at the shining car.

The grouch had no eyes for any one save Rose Mary.

And Rose Mary? Her happy eyes betrayed her secret. One Saturday noon they lunched together, and then he took her in the shining car out to her home.

"Mother, dear," said Rose Mary, tearfully, "a perfect grouch wants to marry me—we have selected the living-room furniture—please say yes."

"Yes," said wise Mrs. Wood, "and when did you select the furniture, my dears?"

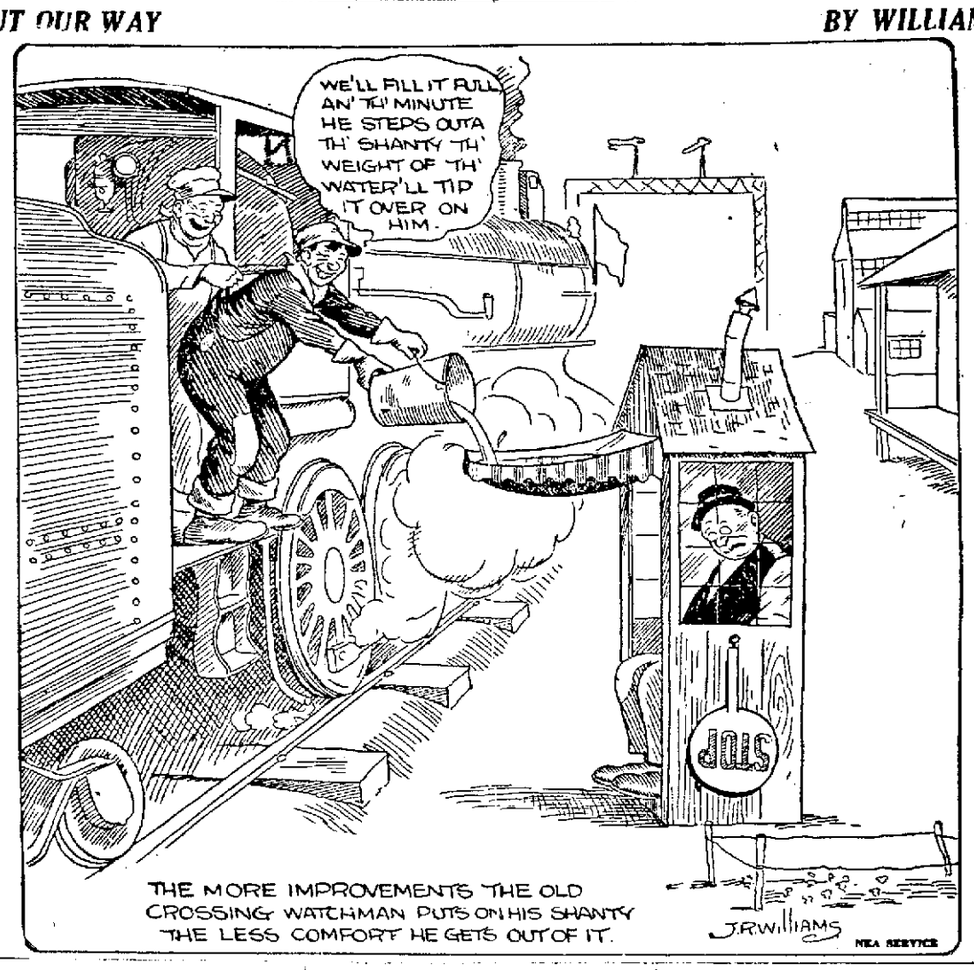

"The first evening we went out together," chuckled the grouch happily. "We selected the furniture then."

"But," said Rose Mary from her mother's arms, "we did not know we were doing it."

ONLY MINOR ACHIEVEMENTS ACCOMPLISHED BY PRESENT LEGISLATURE RECORD SHOWS

Solons Fail to Pass Measures of Importance Affecting Five Major Problems of Legislation Coming Before the Session

MADISON, Wis.—By the Associated Press.—When the accomplishments of the fifty-sixth session of Wisconsin's legislature are recorded after adjournment they will be found to be few and of minor importance, compared to the achievements expected when the houses convened six months ago, legislative bulletins show.

The session convened faced with five major problems: taxation, highway legislation, prohibition enforcement, education and unemployment insurance. It is preparing now to adjourn without having effected enactment into law of any measures of importance relating to these subjects of proposed legislation.

Radical changes were expected from a legislature, both houses of which were controlled and organized at the outset by a La Follette progressive republican-socialist coalition. Besides the control of this group, was the expected majority of wets in both the senate and assembly.

Little Accomplished

After six months of fighting, centered almost exclusively in the closely divided senate, the progressives and the wets admit that they have accomplished little—that the expected changes have not been forthcoming.

Senate action resulted in the killing, one after another of six general income tax bills. Factional divisions within the progressive ranks in the senate caused defeat of proposed revenue law changes, upper house members agree.

The senate and assembly did agree upon a highway tax to shift a larger share of the burden of road building expenses from the general property tax payer to the automobile owner, by passing a gasoline tax and a weight tax bill. Governor Blaine ended the hopes for this program, members say, by his reported veto of the gasoline tax proposal.

Dry Law Stands

Refusal of the senate to submit to a recommendation of Governor Blaine and assembly stands in favor of modified enforcement of the Severson prohibition enforcement law, resulted in defeat of the liquor legislation. The upper house killed the lower house move for repeal of the state enforcement measure, putting an end to the major wet move of the session.

By killing the Dahl bill for reorganization of the system of educational administration in the state, the assembly ended the attempt to consolidate boards and get unity in the Wisconsin school organization. The state board of education, which acted as a research department in education, was abolished on the recommendation of the governor.

Job Insurance Put Over

Unemployment insurance, labor's principal demand from the session, ended in a bill asking for an interim committee to study the question. Faced with defeat, action on the major proposal was deferred for two years.

While failing to approve the major problems which confronted the session, the legislature has passed and the governor has signed over 300 bills. In addition twenty-four resolutions memorializing congress for action on a variety of subjects were adopted by the two houses.

Following are acts of the legislature that have become laws of statewide importance as a result of the session.

New laws affecting labor provide for legalized peaceful picketing in labor disputes; increased construction by the board of control during periods of depression to provide work for unemployed; inclusion of hotel workers under women's hours of labor law; lowering of the number of hours which women in industry might work from 10 hours a day and 55 hours a week to nine hours a day and 50 hours a week, and restriction of the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

Secrecy Clause Repealed

Dealing with taxes the legislature repealed the secrecy clause to the income tax law. Regulations imposed by the tax commission prohibit promiscuous use of income tax information.

In educational matters, the session abolished the state board of education, and it prohibited the use of history texts in schools which defame the founders of the republic, besides increasing the size of the University of Wisconsin board of regents by two members to give the administration immediate control of that institution.

For agriculture the session so far has provided a law to prohibit the use of dairy names in advertising imitation dairy products, while a $1,000,000 appropriation for eradication of bovine tuberculosis is pending.

Both houses passed a gasoline tax and a weight tax bill to finance a highway program, but executive disapproval is expected to kill the proposed gas tax.

Game laws generally were revised.

Regulation of dance halls to suppress vice among young people was provided by the legislature, by its empowering counties to enact regulatory ordinances.

Home rule for counties was voted and approved by the governor.

Memorials to Congress

Congress was memorialized to repeal the Esch-Cummings railroad law; to refuse to send American soldiers overseas; to take over coal mines and to do a number of other things of importance.

Criticism was directed by the legislature at the 450 University of Wisconsin faculty members who during the war signed a round robin denouncing the war attitude of Senator Robert M. La Follette. A further resolution was adopted by the houses praising Senator La Follette for his war record.

The attack directed at the national guard by the assembly was defeated in the senate, but only after a reduction in the guard appropriation from $600,000 annually to $255,000. An attempt to abolish the state's military force was killed by the senate.

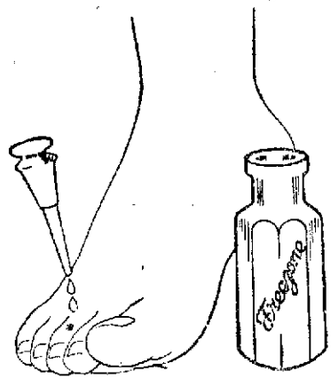

Military training at the University of Wisconsin was made optional rather than compulsory, by legislative action.

PLAN VIGILANT COMMITTEE

WHITE RIVER, S. D.—Offer of a reward of $250 by the county commissioners for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators of many thefts of livestock, harness, saddles, and grain having brought no results, the farmers living in certain sections of Mellette county now propose to organize a vigilant committee to protect themselves, or to mete out summary punishment, if the thieves are caught.

DANISH FARMERS WELCOME PLANS FOR RUSSIAN TRADE

COPENHAGEN.—Plans for a direct steamship line from Scandinavian ports to Petrograd have been made by Norwegian, British and Danish capitalists, to be opened this summer. The new line is being established as a result of the preliminary Russian-Danish trade agreement which was signed in Moscow recently.

The Danish farmers are particularly interested in the new agreement as it is looked upon as providing a market for their surplus produce.

Fish Cooked in the Lake

Quantities of dead eels, gray mullets, seabass and other fish have recently come to the surface of Lake Lucrin, near the north shore of the Gulf of Naples. Fishermen in the vicinity were delighted, especially as the fish appeared to be already cooked, but the authorities prohibited the collection of the fish fearing that they had been poisoned by an eruption of gases. It was these gases, the authorities explained, which, evidently coming from the bottom of the lake, made the water bubble and boil, thus killing and in a way semi-cooking the fish. Lucrin is a small lake said to have been formed by volcanic action in prehistoric times. It was well known for its fish in Roman times, and writers of antiquity extolled its oysters and mussels. Near this is the famous Lacus Avernus, regarded by the ancients as the entrance to the infernal regions.

Marriage Success or Failure?
Flatter To Hold Your Husband

ELINOR GLYN

NEW YORK—"If a woman would have her relations with her husband harmonious and pleasing, she must give him free rein," Elinor Glyn, famous romantic author, maintains. "Don't begin making boundaries that serve only as an objective for him to stray from. Don't mark out lines of conduct for him to adhere to that irritate him until he loathes them."

And don't make boundaries for yourself, she cautions.

"By that I mean don't do things or fail to do them, purely from habit or because you are too lazy to think out your own course," she explained. "Surprise yourself as well as your husband. You'll both enjoy the sensation.

"Flirt with your husband. Flatter him often, even if you have to handle the truth lightly to do so. Be a magnet, always, the same ingratiating magnet that attracted him when you were engaged. Make yourself his desire, not his duty!"

This, she admits, is not always easy, but it is possible if you make the effort.

"And because you must always represent attraction and lure to your husband, don't take any chances by letting him see you at times when you are not neat and as pretty as you can be.

"There isn't a woman born who doesn't feel like slumping, physically and mentally at times. But try to keep up before your husband. It is much more important to keep up for him than for the world at large, composed of individuals who don't care in the least how you look or feel.

"And remember this," she concludes, "men do love to be comfortable. And the old reply, 'Feed the Brute' still holds good as one correct answer to woman's problem—how shall I hold my husband?"

UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE MAKES GREAT STRIDES IN ENGLAND

LONDON.—Esperanto the universal language, is making much headway in England among the commercial classes. The British Esperanto association, organized in the interests of furthering the language in Great Britain, has grown by leaps and bounds.

The association has about $15,000 active members, and classes are held in London seven times a week. Hundreds of pupils have already graduated from the course and readily find positions translating the language for use on the continent, where it is now becoming a popular form of communication between commercial houses.

SEE KICKAPOO VALLEY FIRST

The Kickapoo Valley is one of Wisconsin's most beautiful works of nature and midst all its grandeur lie the Kickapoo Orchards, which are a revelation to both old and young, being located 1½ miles east of Gays Mills, and cover approximately one thousand acres.

These orchards consist of almost every apple known to this climate, cherries, grapes, etc., which, with their luscious flavor and fine quality, will almost astound you.

For an ideal Sunday's outing this trip cannot be surpassed in any part of the state. Better spend next Sunday there as the cherries are at their best now. Fruit is sold at all times.

When you near the orchards, look for the Headquarters sign. It will guide you to the orchards supreme and you will return home and consider your Sunday more than well spent.—Advertisement.

Miss J. Addams Social Worker Ill In Tokio

The report comes from Tokio that the condition of Jane Addams, the noted social worker, is very good after the operation which she underwent on June 27th. Miss Addams is one of the great leaders of the country in welfare work. Her settlement, Hull House in Chicago, is famous throughout the country. She has been engaged in social work for many years and is famous here and abroad. Dr. Kubo assisted by Dr. Webb of the American Naval hospital, operated on Miss Addams. They report that they removed a small non-malignant tumor.

UNRULY SPECTATORS MAR TENNIS MATCHES IN PARIS

PARIS.—The French have still much to learn in the matter of proper behavior at tennis matches. The recent international hard court contests here showed the spectators as unruly, boisterous and nervous. They did not restrain their emotions, and applauded and shouted while rallies were still in progress. They resembled the assemblies of howling baseball fans in America or shrieking bull fight enthusiasts in Spain, rather than the orderly gatherings of Forest Hills and Wimbledon.

French crowds are also very partial. "Their champion right or wrong, first, last and all the time," appears to be their motto. They applauded the lucky shots of Lacoste when he managed to drop the ball on the other side of the net for a point which should have gone against him, with as much gusto as they cheered the double faults of "Little Bill" Johnston which gave a point to a countryman.

FOREST FIRES RESULT FROM CARELESS AUTOISTS

CLEVELAND.—One hundred thousand motorists of Cuyahoga county have been asked by the Cleveland Automobile club to join in a movement to keep camp and picnic sites clean and undefaced and to protect the countryside from the danger of fire.

In a statement the club suggests that the motorists adopt the slogan, "Clean up as you go." It is pointed out that in recent years there has been a growing tendency to litter the countryside with rubbish, especially during the warm months. "Not only is the natural beauty of the countryside desecrated," the club says, "but there are even more serious aspects of the situation. More than 1,000 forest fires were started last year by automobilists who left camp fires burning or threw lighted cigarettes, cigars or matches into grass at the roadside."

ALBERTA COLLEGE GRADUATES FIRST WOMAN AGRICULTURIST

EDMONTON, Alta.—The degree of bachelor of science has been awarded Miss Sheila Marryatt, the first woman graduate in agriculture from the University of Alberta. She completed the prescribed three-year agricultural course with honors in a class of several hundred men.

Miss Marryatt, sister of the Hon. Irene Parlby, minister without portfolio in the Alberta provincial cabinet, has announced that she will take up a quarter section near Alix, Alta., and will apply scientific agricultural methods to the land. Miss Marryatt believes that women can succeed as farmers just as well as men.

Government statistics based upon census figures show that 15,841 women in the Dominion are operating farms.

JAPANESE IMPERIAL FAMILY TO BECOME MORE DEMOCRATIC

LONDON.—In line with the democratic tendencies of European kings and queens, the Japanese Imperial Family, says a dispatch from Tokio, will in future adopt a more democratic attitude in its public activities. Much of the pomp and ceremony which accompanied the social functions of the royal house in the past will be eliminated.

Members of the imperial family plan to attend theatrical performances, concerts and similar public gatherings more frequently, and will mingle with the people with greater freedom than heretofore. Guards of honor which have invariably appeared in the past as escorts to members of the imperial household are being dispensed with, except in the case of state functions.

Virginia Tobacco Grown in Africa

A firm of British manufacturers is using a new brand of cigarettes made from Virginia tobacco grown in British Africa. The new brand of cigarettes promises to force a reduction of prices in the British market.

The tobacco plants were purchased in Virginia and shipped in their native earth to Africa, where the experiment proved in every way satisfactory, the matured leaves being of first class quality. The result has been the placing on the market of a packet of twenty "Virginia" cigarettes for fifteen cents whereas the post-war price for the same article has been and is twenty-five cents.

FULL SLEEVES OR NONE AT ALL FOR THIS SUMMER

If sleeves do not cover the hand to the finger joints they do not exist at all. All or nothing, is their motto.

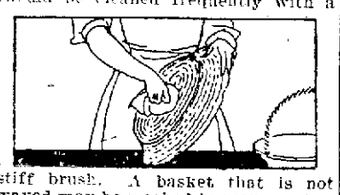

Dresses and blouses both make use of the sleeveless line for summer—evening gowns, afternoon gowns, sports wear, simple summer dresses all feature sleeveless styles in one manner or the other.

Several models are sketched: the sleeveless blouse to be worn with spring suits, an evening gown, an afternoon dress.

Household Suggestions

REED BASKETS

Baskets of reed and willow are not ornamental if covered with dust. They should be cleaned frequently with a stiff brush. A basket that is not waxed may be washed in soapy water, rinsed and dried without injury.

IRONING BOARD

It is an excellent idea to cover both sides of your ironing board instead of just one—then use one side for dark, serge materials that discolor and stain and the other for white articles. Keep the board in a bag made just to fit it.

SAVING ICE

Do not put hot food into the refrigerator—let it cool first outside. This will keep the ice bill down.

MACHINE OIL

Machine oil may be washed out of material with mild soap and water. If it has gone into the stitching, however, it is better to dissolve it in benzine or gasoline.

FRESH VEGETABLES

All vegetables not directly from the garden are better for being freshened by standing a while in cold water.

PAJAMA STYLES

Very attractive pajamas now come in Italian silk. Some are bound with ribbons of contrasting color and others are finished with ruffles of the material, the edge of which has been picoted.

No one under 70 has died at Broughton (Yorkshire), England, for the past 20 years.

HAM AND EGGS

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH
(Of Columbia University.)

Ham and eggs retains its individuality as a dish for luncheon or supper, with bread, or as baked potato, accompanying it. A good recipe for this combination is as follows:

Take one and one-half cups of chopped, cooked ham. Cook the ham for two minutes in two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of flour, stirring all the time. Add one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of mustard and one cup of milk, and cook until thickened. Pour this into a buttered platter, or a buttered dish, which can be placed in the oven and served at table.

Make six hollow places in the mixture and in each one drop an egg. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and cover with buttered crumbs. Bake until egg is set. The egg may be soft or cooked hard, as the family prefers. Serve at once.

The crumbs are soft bread crumbs with enough melted butter added to make them well buttered.

ALL SHADES

All the shades of red, from pale pink to the deepest crimson, are to be very much in demand for fall, particularly in millinery.

MADISON, Wis.—The best thought of the state's authorities on the problem of the delinquent girl will be brought to bear when social workers from many cities meet Friday at Milwaukee. The symposium will begin at 9:30 a. m. at the Health Service building, with Miss Edith Foster, director of the Health Service training school, presiding.

Miss Martha Riley, director of social work for the state board of health, announced the following addresses for the meeting:

"The Problem of Mentally Defective Girls in Wisconsin," Dr. Elizabeth Woods, clinical psychologist, department of public instruction.

"Social Aspects of Delinquency," Aubrey Williams, executive secretary, Wisconsin Conference of Social work.

BEADED CHIFFON

Beaded chiffon frocks, particularly those combined with Chantilly or shadow laces, are being made up for fall. They are designed for evening wear and come in the delicate shades.

FALL SILHOUETTES

There is no danger that the straightline frock is to be ousted for fall, though there are many variations of the circular flounce and the pleated skirt shown.

BLUE FASHIONABLE

Paris is sponsoring old blue for fall to replace the Lanvin green that has been so popular for the past season.

Old Customs

Palm Sunday customs formerly included the sanctification of flowers and branches of palm, or boughs of various trees when palm could not be procured, and the flowers and branches were then distributed and carried in procession after being fumed with frankincense from censers. After the Reformation Henry VIII declared the carrying of palms on this day to be one of the ceremonies not to be condemned or dropped, and the custom still holds, palm from Spain being available, though not in such demand as in parts of the Continent, and failing far below flowers in public estimation.

TABERT DIED FROM PNEUMONIA CLAIM IN HIGGINBOTHAM TRIAL

Defense Fights Attempt of State to Show Youth Died as Result of Flogging

LAKE CITY, Fla.—Efforts by the state to show that "excessive" flogging given Martin Tabert, young North Dakotan, by Thomas W. Higginbotham, was directly responsible for Tabert's death, were vigorously fought today when the trial of the former convict whipping boss of the Putnam Lumber company was resumed. Higginbotham is under indictment for murder in connection with Tabert's death.

The defense made no effort to deny that Tabert was whipped by Higginbotham but will attempt to show that the prisoner was whipped in accordance with prison regulations which specify punishment by ten lashes. The contention of the defense is that Tabert's death was caused primarily by pneumonia. Witnesses already have testified that he was given from 56 to 87 lashes by Higginbotham.

Cross-examination of Graham Ward who Wednesday testified that he witnessed the whipping of Tabert and counted 87 lashes, brought denial that he was offered $5,000 to testify or that he had made a statement to that effect. Further questioning brought from Ward a statement that he did not know whether the man he saw whipped was Tabert or not. "It was a man and that's all I know," he said in reply to defense counsel's questioning. Clashes between counsel over some of the questions put to Ward featured the forenoon proceedings.

been grossly betraying the people with reference to the administration's proposal for readjustment of the tax burdens, are enamored over the prospects of this system of sales taxes. With few exceptions, there has not gone out from this capital a correct report concerning the taxation measures which I have proposed. Many newspapers and some news agencies have basely misinformed the people concerning the taxation question before the legislature, and they have raised false issues in their attempts to fool the public.

"In fact, most of those newspapers have deliberately falsified, not only in their editorials, but also in their news reports. Such newspapers have repeatedly, by editorial and by press reports, talked about 'the proposed increase of taxes' when they knew the contrary was true. Those newspapers and their press representatives have well known that the taxation measures proposed by this administration impose less taxes than are now imposed under the present tax laws.

Defeats Tax Reduction

"This propaganda of those newspapers will, for the time being, defeat the great mass of the people of this state from being relieved of tax burdens of millions of dollars, but I want to give the warning now that this fight for justice has just begun, and those with broad shoulders will be required to bear their just burdens. The weaker shoulders must no longer be compelled to bear the burdens of the strong.

"I plead guilty to the charge that public funds have been conserved. They have been conserved because I felt that we are going through a period of hard times, and that the prospects for a readjustment of the tax burdens, upon the principle that those who are best able to pay should bear the heavier burden, are not altogether promising, at this session of the legislature, for the reasons that now appear on record."

Governor Blaine asserted that the gasoline tax bill and weight tax would produce nearly $10,000,000 annually, declaring that a "reasonable highway program demands no such amount." He said that he was willing to bide the time when persons with large incomes paid greater taxes and railroads bear their share of taxes, saying that "then neither gasoline taxes, nor other modified forms of sale taxes will be required to raise revenues, either for roads or other purposes."

SIX VARSITY SHELLS RACE FOR HONORS AT POUGHKEEPSIE

Pick of the East and West Battle for Supremacy in American Rowing

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y.—By The Associated Press.—Under the lee of the picturesque Highlands of the Hudson river, six eight-oared varsity shells, the pick of the east and west, will battle for supremacy this evening in the premier test of American college rowing.

Stalwart midshipmen of the Naval academy, champions for the past two years, and favorites again this year, will match their skill against a sturdy eight from the Pacific coast, representing the University of Washington and four eastern rivals—Cornell, Syracuse, Columbia and Pennsylvania—in the three-mile race that will conclude the 26th annual regatta of the inter-collegiate Rowing association. The middies' chief opposition, critics believe will be furnished by Columbia, Syracuse and Washington, with Pennsylvania and Cornell conceded but an outside chance.

OPPOSE USE OF TROOPS TO ENFORCE DRY LAW

WASHINGTON.—Flat opposition to any project for using the army to aid in prohibition enforcement work was voiced here Thursday by Secretary Weeks, speaking at the graduation exercises at the army war college.

TRIO OF GERMAN U-BOAT OFFICERS CAPTIVES IN RUHR

Submarine Commanders Likely to Receive Stern Justice at Hands of French

LONDON.—Three German U-Boat commanders who escaped after their exploits in the war are now prisoners of the French in the Ruhr and are likely to receive stern justice, says the Duesseldorf correspondent of the Daily Mail.

The first of these is Paul Audler, who commanded the submarine 9-A. He now is charged with complicity in the explosion that partly wrecked the Rhone-Herne canal. The second is Otto Horden accused of sabotage in the Bochum district. The third, is Commander Rose, who navigated the U-53 on its trip to the American coast in 1915. He now is suffering from the effects of a severe beating administered by a Belgian officer whom he insulted.

Radio for the Lonely Lumberjack

At a lumber camp in the state of Oregon there has been erected what is claimed to be the longest straight-line radio antenna, privately owned, in the world. The trees around the camp had been cut down and the nearest suitable one was 1015 feet away, 300 feet high with the lowest limb 150 feet above the ground. With much difficulty and hazardous climbing a single copper wire was strung from the radio house to a point 200 feet up the tree. Many of the large camps of the northwest are now installing wireless sets so that the isolated lumberjacks may be in touch with the outside world.

ALL ABOARD FOR THE 3-MILE LIMIT

The latest pleasure device to be introduced at Atlantic City is the water bicycle. It is capable of making a fair rate of speed through the water, and some enthusiasts hope to be able to make it go the full three miles to the edge of the prohibition limit.

PRESENT SYSTEM IN INDUSTRY SCORED BY CATHOLIC SPEAKER

Conference on Industrial Problems in Session in Milwaukee Today

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—High finance and the present industrial system were scored by the Rev. Joseph Husslein, associate editor of America, before the Catholic conference on industrial problems here Thursday, when in his address on "The Worker and Ownership," he said with reference to labor: "Since the days of the tradesman and craftsman, an almost new development has taken place in the United States, the virtual concentration of ownership and control of one of the most important productive enterprises into the hands of a few nonproductive financiers."

The building of labor banks by the workers constitutes the first blow at a "false and hopelessly un-Christian system of finance," according to the speaker.

Defining Catholic teachings on the subject of "The State and Industry," as given in Pope Leo's encyclical on the condition of labor, the Rev. John A. Ryan of the Catholic University of America, declared that Catholicism holds a middle ground between socialism and individualism.

"Catholic teachings oppose socialism because a socialist state would be a bad thing for society. They oppose individualism because that political theory neither adequately protects individual rights nor adequately promotes the welfare of the weaker social classes," said the Rev. Ryan.

The substitution of a positive, expansive government policy in the regulation of industry for the present policy which was characterized as restrictive, was advocated by Col. P. J. Kealy, Kansas City, Mo., in a talk on governmental aid in relieving unemployment.

"It is evident," said Colonel Kealy, "that the best means of banishing unemployment is the promotion of national prosperity and therefore those agencies making for permanent prosperity should be encouraged and safeguarded."

To make permanent our national prosperity, Colonel Kealy said, two courses of action must be followed first, the insuring of industrial stability, and second, government assistance of business instead of government hindrance.

Strikes, said the speaker, were the greatest single obstacle to industrial stability and he pointed out that the coal strike by causing many people to use oil, hurt the coal industry to a large extent.

DR. L. H. PAMMEL HERE TO ADJUST FARM INSURANCE

Dr. L. H. Pammel of Ames, Iowa, trustee of the Pammel estate, has been in the city for a few days to adjust the insurance on the barn destroyed by the cyclone on the Pammel farm last Monday afternoon. Dr. Pammel plans to have the barn rebuilt. Wells Bennett will draw the plans for the new building.

The barn is the same as pictured in Wednesday's Tribune. The farm is leased to Hyde and Funk and used as a dairy farm.

Economy in New Baseball Cover

A baseball cover made in one piece and requiring only 114 stitches has recently been invented. The seam runs around the ball in such a way that its two ends are parallel on one side of the ball with a diagonal joining of them on the other side. Although the chief object is economy in manufacture, it is thought the new design will make possible new curves in pitching. It is estimated that from three to six additional covers may be made from one horsehide.

Origin of the Ribston Pippin

Each leading apple has its story, and one may be given, that of the Ribston Pippin. For it we have to thank a diplomatist, who was made a baronet by Charles I. DENIES CLAIMS OF PROPERTY OWNERS IN HIBBING SUIT

Judge Rules Adjoining Holdings Will Not be Damaged by Proposed Mine Operations

DULUTH, Minn.—Ruling that adjoining properties will not be damaged by the proposed mining operations, District Judge W. A. Cant, late Wednesday, filed a decision denying about $8,000,000 in claims filed by property owners in the noted "North Forty" suit brought by residents of the village of Hibbing, Minn.

An appeal will be taken from the Cant decision to the state supreme court, it was announced by attorneys for the property owners represented in the suit.

The Cant decision stated that "It is to the advantage and interest of Hibbing and vicinity, to the public in general, to the state and to the nation to have the ore mined and removed."

The property owners had sought to prevent an iron mining company to compel the vacating of the section involved, in order that mining operations might be started.

ENGLAND HAS CHEAP GAS

LONDON.—British chemists have evolved a household gas so harmless that would-be suicides can get no more than a headache from it. The new gas, which is now in use at Newark-on-Trent, can be produced at about a third of the cost of ordinary gas. It contains only 1.4 per cent of carbon monoxide, which is the poisonous element in household gas. American gas contains more than 4 per cent of this ingredient. The new gas gives off a pungent, penetrating odor of such power that it can be detected immediately. In this lies its protective feature.

An interesting comparison between the old-time "windjammer" that consumed months in crossing the ocean, and the last word in transport luxury, the Leviathan, may be made in reading a description of the latter. FORMER SULTAN DISLIKES HEAT OF EGYPT'S SUMMER

LONDON.—Mohammed VI, at one time Sultan of Turkey, wants to get away from Egypt, where he finds the summers too hot. The British will not permit him to live in Palestine or Cyprus, so he is considering Switzerland.

The present Turkish government is said to be willing to allow Mohammed's wives, who are now in Constantinople, to join him, but he does not want them to come to a European non-Moslem country, so in Switzerland he will be alone with the exception of his 12-year-old son, his physician, and his personal attendants.

BROWNSVILLE TALKS STATION SITE WITH GOPHER RAIL BODY

One Faction Wants Depot on Old Site; Other Wants it Built on New Location

Brownsville, Minn., staged its verbal battle over the site of the new Milwaukee railroad station, to replace the one burned in the Brownsville fire three years ago, before members of the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission Wednesday afternoon at Brownsville.

F. E. Withrow and George Bunge represented about 400 petitioners who want the new station built near the stock corral, south and west of the old site. The Milwaukee road desires to build on the old site. At present a boxcar, which the townspeople say is too hot in summer and too cold in winter to be of service, is being used as a station. The railroad showed that in the past year passenger and freight receipts from Brownsville amounted to $7,900. The road also states that to build on the new site would be too expensive. The commission took the case under advisement.

Mr. Withrow also presented the case of the village and consolidated telephone companies against Herman Rippe, storekeeper and postmaster, to the commission. Rippe has failed to pay phone rental of $2 a year to the village company and 40 cents a year to the consolidated company to go into the consolidated's sinking fund. Rippe was refused service and took the case before the commission. According to the testimony Rippe was willing to pay the $2 rental a year but objected to the paying the 80 cents, or two years' payments, on the grounds that there was no sinking fund. The rules of the railroad commission compel the establishment of a sinking fund to over depreciation to the plant and equipment. This case also was taken under advisement.

GIBBONS OUTRANKS ALL OTHER BOXERS DEMPSEY HAS MET

Challenger is Cool in Battle, and Puncher of no Mean Ability

NEW YORK—(A. P.)—When Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul's heavyweight, steps into the ring at Shelby, Montana, July 4, against Jack Dempsey, the champion, he may be compared in some respects to "Gentleman Jim" Corbett when that dapper boxing wizard squared off against John L. Sullivan at New Orleans in 1892.

Gibbons' chances against Dempsey have been belittled by a majority of the experts, and indeed, the Minnesotan hardly appears heavy puncher enough to flatten the Coloradan. But like his middleweight brother, Mike, "The Phantom," Tommy is a master boxer, cool in combat, always clever, always fast, and a puncher of no mean ability.

At least a year older than Dempsey, an inch or two shorter and really a light-heavyweight, Gibbons may not be able to stand before the champion for 15 rounds. Except in age Corbett was much younger than Sullivan when they met at New Orleans. Gibbons and Dempsey will be like "Gentleman Jim" and "Terrible John L." in that famous scrap of 31 years ago.

Sullivan's terrific punching power, like that of the Dempsey of today, caused many a sturdy opponent's knees to quake when he thought of it, and many of them were defeated by fear before Sullivan laid a glove on them. Not so Corbett. When Jim took his corner at New Orleans John L. scowled, shuffled his feet and spat on the ring floor, his customary greeting. Jim laughed and chatted with onlookers as the gloves were being pushed upon his hands. He paid no attention to Sullivan.

Through the rounds, as agile Jim sidestepped Sullivan's bull-like rushes, the champion became infuriated. Came then the famous twenty-first round, Corbett still strong and smiling. The wear of the fight had told on Sullivan; he was angered, but even then had he been able to punch forbade solidly he would have retained the title. Corbett landed five crashing blows to the jaw.

Sullivan kept his feet, but his eyes began to roll. He was tottering. Corbett measured his man. The right landed on the jaw point. Old John's knees sagged and he keeled slowly over.

The great champion, batterer down of a hundred heavy-hitting opponents, had been defeated by a master boxer.

Dempsey, as champion, has never met a man as well-versed in the game as Gibbons. Carpentier, the one-punch man, could not evade the Dempsey rushes. Bill Brennan was more than once a punching bag. Awkward Billy Miske was another. Willard, stunned by the first of Dempsey's blows, was an easy target until the end.

GROSKI REPORTED TO HAVE REJOINED PEERLESS CHAINS WILL PLAY HERE ON FOURTH

AL GROSKI, star shortstop of the Montagues, has announced his intentions of going back to Winona with the Peerless Chains, according to reports from the up-river city. Frank Bedessem, business manager of the locals, asked about the affair Thursday morning, said that Groski had called him by phone Wednesday and notified them to look for another man.

Arranged Quietly

Although Groski's decision to play with his home town aggregation comes as a surprise to baseball fans here, negotiations for his eventual return to Winona have been quietly arranged by close followers and boosters of the Chains for over a month, according to newspaper men at Winona. It is understood that fans have solicited a healthy pot of money out of which Groski was to be paid in the event of his return.

However, Bedessem announced Thursday that no definite arrangement for release of Groski has been made. He indicated that Groski had promised a thirty-day notice should he ever decide to return to Winona during the season.

In any event, Groski will play with the Chains in their game against Houston at the East End diamond Sunday, his first game of the season for Winona.

Plays Here Fourth

According to reports at Winona, Groski has promised to play the morning game of the double-header with the Nelsons here on the Fourth of July. Bedessem said today that as far as he knew, Groski would be with the club for both of the games.

Groski has played twelve games with the locals to date. Business Manager Bedessem announced that Groski intended coming to La Crosse this week to talk matters over further, so that it is believed that the exact standing between the Montagues and their infielder will be known soon.

YANKEES AND MACKS OPEN FOUR GAME SERIES THURSDAY PIRATES AND REDS BATTLE

CHICAGO, Ill. By The Associated Press.—Two series of absorbing interest open in the major leagues Thursday, one at the Yankee stadium between New York and Philadelphia for first place in the American league and the other at Forbes field between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati for second place in the National league. The former is of four and the latter of three contests.

The Reds are but two games behind the Pirates while the Athletics are only five behind the Yankees. The Pirates, incidentally, are four and a half games behind the New York Giants.

The Giants won their ninth straight yesterday, 15 to 8, in eleven innings, making seven runs in their final turn at bat.

Frankie Frisch, the "Fordham Flash," contributed two hits, the second his one-hundredth of the season making him the first player in the majors to reach the century mark this season.

Up against sterner stuff than that, the Pirates have shown good form, yesterday marking their fourth straight victory over St. Louis, 6 to 0, giving them a clean sweep of the series there as the Giants made on their last visit. Philadelphia fell a victim before Brooklyn, 15 to 5, in the opener of their renewal.

It was an open day in the American league.

Detroit and St. Louis will battle today for last place in the first division and Chicago will try to dispel the shadow that has made Cleveland look like a dark horse, while Boston and Washington struggle over last places.

Max Carey, the fleet-footed outfielder of the Pirates and his teammate, Harold Traynor, took occasion to soften their batting averages against the Cardinal twirlers, each poling three hits. Carey made two triples and a double.

Joe Berg, former Princeton star infielder, made his major league debut with the Brooklyn Dodgers and played short. Joe bagged a single, scored a run and accepted five chances in the field without a wobble.

Norman Boeckel, third baseman of the Brooklyn Dodgers, has been indefinitely suspended because of an altercation with the umpires at Brooklyn.

Get Revenge on Badgers for Trimming Handed them on Decoration Day

Lansing got sweet revenge for their defeat Decoration day at Galena, by trimming the salaried Platteville Mowers on the local ground Tuesday 5 to 3. In view of Manager Hollenbeck's challenge to all semi pro teams in Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, the locals have every reason to be proud of their victory. The Sox fielded their usual fine game and hit as well and fans were well pleased with the exhibition put up. Erickson pitched a good game and the Sox pulled off two fast double plays. SHELBY BATTLE ON WITH JIM JOHNSON HOLDING REIGNS

"We are Going Ahead," Says Mayor of Shelby in Officials' Confab

SHELBY, Mont.—By The Associated Press.—With Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby back in charge of the Dempsey-Gibbons heavyweight fight scheduled for July 4, the arrangements for staging the battle went ahead as usual Thursday despite the withdrawal yesterday of Dan Tracy of Great Falls, as business manager of the carbon.

Mayor Johnson declared the fight would be held as scheduled, that the final $100,000 installment due Dempsey next Monday would be paid and that if necessary he would sacrifice his own property to raise the amount needed.

"We are going ahead," Johnson said at a conference Wednesday night attended by Mike Collins, matchmaker, and Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager.

"There is nothing more to say," Johnson added. "The management of the fight will continue as it has been, there will be absolutely no changes, tickets will continue to be sold at the same old stand and the guarantee will be paid."

NEW YORK. — Zev, champion three year-old, suffered a slight injury in training and was withdrawn from the Latonia Derby entries.

DEMPSEY WAS POOR PROSPECT WHEN HE FIRST ENTERED RING

Most Crude and Unpromising in His Class When He Bowed in New York in 1915

NEW YORK. — Jack Dempsey, world heavyweight boxing champion, who defends his title in a 15-round match with Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul at Shelby, Montana, July 4, was one of the most crude and unpromising fighters of his class when he made his New York bow in 1915 in a no-decision contest with John Lester Johnson, a negro.

Then in his infancy as a fighter and under the managerial wing of John the Barber, Dempsey appeared a sorry prospect for the championship. Johnson, also in fighting babyhood, had just recovered from a knockout from Sam Langford. So they were evenly matched in size and skill and the bout went the limit of ten rounds.

Each claimed the unofficial decision. The negro's blows, however, were most effective, for a pair of Dempsey's ribs were damaged by body blows. Dempsey at that time proved to be a one-handed battler. His defense was poor and he swung his right instead of shooting it straight.

Among other engagements in his first New York visit Dempsey met Wild Bert Kenny. Andre Anderson and Dan Kotchell. Kenny and Anderson stayed the limit of ten rounds each but Kenny fell in the fifth round. Early in 1917, after a series of exploits by no means brilliant, Dempsey was knocked out in one round by Jim Flynn, the Pueblo Fireman. Various reports were circulated about that fight and later Dempsey redeemed himself by disposing of Flynn in less than a round.

While Dempsey's early performances were mediocre and suggestive of anything but future greatness, he developed into one of the greatest heavyweights in ring history. He severed relations with John the Barber and joined in a business deal with Jack Kearns, his present manager.

Dempsey then began to improve his hitting style. Previously he had punched only with his right, using the left solely for defense.

Kearns declared that he strapped Dempsey's right arm to his side and instructed him for months in the use of his left in attack.

It was with staggering left hooks to the face that Dempsey sent Jess Willard to the floor in the first round of their championship engagement at Toledo, July 4, 1919. Willard went to the floor seven times in that round. It was a terrific left hook to the stomach that finished Fred Fulton, the Rochester, Minn., plasterer at Harrison, N. J. in the first round and it was a left hook to the body that started Georges Carpentier to the floor in the great 1921 spectacle at Jersey City.

A left to face or body is Dempsey's most frequent blow, yet his right to jaw and ribs is unusually effective. He shoots straight to the mark. His blows, well-timed, travel only a short distance, the tremendous power of the shoulders being employed in every launching.

MAYOR JIM JOHNSON, SHELBY, PREPARED TO PLEDGE FORTUNE IN ORDER TO STAGE BATTLE

GREAT FALLS, Mont.— By The Associated Press.—Prospects of holding the Jack Dempsey-Tom Gibbons heavyweight championship fight at Shelby July 4, Thursday revolved around Jack Kearns, manager of the world's champion, who returned to Great Falls bringing with him Mayor Jim Johnson of Shelby, treasurer of the American Legion committee promoting the championship battle.

The resignation of Dan Tracy, pioneer Great Falls mining man and hotel owner, from the position as manager of the business end of the fight, cast a dark shadow over the situation with the prospect of meeting the final $100,000 installment due Dempsey on his $300,000 guarantee very remote. Tracy resigned Wednesday night without warning to the promoters of his decision. He said he had been unable to make any headway towards collecting the $17,000 subscribed by Great Falls business men to complete the second $100,000 installment paid Dempsey on June 16.

Mayor Johnson of Shelby, who already has personally sunk a fortune of $150,000 in the venture, declared the retirement of Tracy would not interfere in any way with holding the fight, and that plans to bring the champion and challenger together July 4 would go forward without interruption. Johnson declared he was prepared to personally guarantee the final payment due Dempsey, backing his statement with the assertion that he had property valued at $350,000 which he would pledge if necessary.

Gibbons, the challenger, has declared his willingness to go through with the fight no matter what the gate receipts may be. Gibbons, under the terms of the contract will not begin to share in the receipts until after the first $300,000 is in the box office.

Dempsey, it is known, is ready to fight Gibbons for the $200,000 he has already received, but his wishes in this regard are not given much consideration because of his inclination to abide by the final decision of Manager Kearns. Kearns, previous to Tracy's resignation, repeatedly declared he would not allow Dempsey to go into the ring unless he received the full $300,000 due him.

MINDORO SCORES 2-0 SHUTOUT OVER HOLMEN OUTFIT

In a game played at Holmen, Mindoro shut Holmen out by a score of two to nothing. This is the second time that Mindoro has done the trick this season.

George Glennie, on the mound for Mindoro last Sunday, proved effective in pinches, striking out nine men and allowing eight scattered hits. He was effective in the eighth inning by retiring the side by the strikeout fashion with two men on bases. This was also repeated in the ninth with the bases loaded.

R. Tabbert on the mound for Holmen pitched a fine game allowing eight hits and striking out two. Base on balls off Tabbert one. Off Glennie none.

ST. PAUL OFFERS TO TAKE ON STAGING OF TITLE BATTLE

Great Northern Railroad Refuses Aid in Financing July Fourth Party

ST. PAUL.—Minn.—While William P. Kennedy, vice president of the Great Northern railroad, has declared it altogether improbable that his road will help finance the Shelby fight, the St. Paul boxing club has wired an offer to Jack Kearns of $200,000 for the fight in St. Paul.

In other words, the refusal of the Great Northern, whose offices are here, to aid the fight in Shelby, may help bring it to St. Paul, fight fans believe.

The railroad takes the attitude, Mr. Kennedy said, that prize-fight promotion is not railroad business.

Jack Reddy, local matchmaker, wired the offer to Kearns, his proposal giving an option of taking fifty percent of the gate receipts.

With Gibbons, a St. Paul fighter, it is believed certain that a paying crowd could be obtained in the Twin Cities.

Kearns, according to news dispatches here, is not considering offers for the match and will not consider them unless the Shelby promoters fail to raise the $100,000 July 2 as agreed.

MRS. BUZZI FOUND GUILTY OF KILLING RICH CONTRACTOR

Woman Collapses in Court Room as Jury Brings in Verdict; Faces Electric Chair

NEW YORK.—Convicted of first degree murder and facing the electric chair, Mrs. Anna Buzzi, slayer of Frederick Schneider, wealthy Bronx contractor, with whom she lived several years, collapsed in the court-room Wednesday night when the jury in Supreme Court Justice O'Malley's court brought in its verdict after deliberating ten hours. White and shaking, and with her composure broken for the first time since her arrest four months ago, Mrs. Buzzi was committed to the Bronx county jail to await sentence on July 9. The penalty for first degree murder in this state is electrocution.

Schneider, who was the builder of the world's largest apartment house, was found dead in his automobile with two bullets in his brain on a lonely road in the Bronx on February 26.

Mrs. Buzzi, the following day, was held as a material witness. Then William Ture, her brother-in-law, declared Mrs. Buzzi had quarreled with Schneider and had requested him to get her a pistol, saying "If I can't have Fred, no one else will." She was indicted for first degree murder, but continued to declare her innocence and openly charged Ture with the murder.

During the trial, which began last week, the prosecution stressed Ture's testimony that he had reached Mrs. Buzzi's apartment shortly after six o'clock on the night of the murder and had found her washing blood stains from her coat.

GRANT COUNTY TO GRIND 1,000 TONS OF LIMESTONE

LANCASTER, Wis.—One thousand tons of limestone will be ground in Grant county beginning on July 1, according to a contract which has just been let. Keenan declares that nearly every farm in Grant county needs at least two ton of limestone to the acre to produce the best crops of alfalfa.

3 JAILED IN FIRE INQUIRY

In 1880 the largest gas holder in this country held but 2,000,000 cubic feet of gas, but today, it is reported the average capacity of the holders is 15,000,000 cubic feet. To make the gas consumed in households and industry requires each year nearly 8,000,000 tons of bituminous coal, nearly 2,000,000 tons of anthracite coal, 2,000,000 tons of coke and about 1,000,000 gallons of gas oil.

POISON TAKEN FROM 24,000 REPTILES TO SUPPLY SCIENTISTS

Texas Man Makes Business of Buying and Selling Poisonous Snakes

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. — Three glass jars, hermetically sealed, each filled with yellowish crystals, repose on a shelf in the office of W. A. ("Snake") King, at "Snakeville," on the outskirts of Brownsville. The crystals in each jar represent the collection of poison from approximately 8,000 rattlesnakes, and, according to Mr. King, there is enough poison in the jars to kill several regiments, if it were properly applied.

King annually buys and sells thousands of rattlesnakes, and at "Snakeville" there are at all times hundreds of rattlers of all sizes and descriptions. For several years he has been collecting poison from the reptiles, crystalizing it in a small kiln and sending the crystals to scientists in all parts of the world who are endeavoring to find a remedy for snake bite.

Few people in Brownsville realize the volume of business which flows through "Snakeville." They daily see scores of boxes labeled "Dangerous Reptiles; Handle With Care," leave and enter the express office, but it is an accustomed-grown sight. Dozens of Mexican snake catchers are required to keep the stream of reptiles moving into King's pens.

"I have never charged a cent for the poison crystals, nor do I ever expect to charge anyone for the antitoxin," King states. "I have saved the poison and crystalized it for the benefit of science, and I have the antitoxin for the benefit of any one bitten by a rattlesnake.

"Scientists throughout the world have asked me for crystals, and I have never failed to respond, provided I was assured they were to be used for legitimate scientific purposes only."

It is a curious fact, King points out, that the poison used to produce the antitoxin works well only when it comes from the family of snakes from which the bite has come. In the case of a rattlesnake bite, King asserts, the serum used is made from the blood of a horse inoculated with rattlesnake poison injected into the blood as near and as soon after the bite as possible.

When the snake farm at Sao Paulo, Brazil, was established by the Brazilian government and placed in charge of advanced scientists, King was asked by them for some crystals and antitoxin. King supplied several quarts of the crystals, representing the collection from about 20,000 rattlesnakes.

King has branched out his business to include birds and animals of diversified variety. Parrots, iguanas, ant-eaters, horned toads, wildcats, Mexican lions, leopards and scores of other specie of animal life of Mexico and the southwest, are found on his farm.

A gorilla four feet six inches in height has the strength of four strong men. It can bend double a pair of 12-bore gun barrels in its paw.

Hair Kept Beautifully Wavy, Indoors or Out!

Your hair will have a prettier wave and curl than probably it has ever had if, just before doing it up, you will apply a little liquid silmerine with a brush. The waviness will look perfectly natural, and the hair will be sleek and glossy like plush. It will remain in curl the longest time, regardless of heat, wind or moisture, and you won't have to be continually fussing with loose strands or flying ends.

Liquid silmerine is, of course, entirely harmless. It leaves no sticky, greasy or streaky trace. It is also an excellent dressing, keeping the hair delightfully soft and silky. A few ounces from your druggist will last for weeks. It is fine for bobbed as well as long hair.

DRUNK IS ON JUDGE, SO COURT FREES HIM

CHICAGO—"Judge, that's the man we gave the $25 reward on Thursday for returning your diamond studded judge star," whispered the bailiff to Judge Peter Schwaba on Monday as Mike Trotter, 26, who had found the star in a taxicab, was arraigned for being pipe eyed.

"Which goes to show," remarked the court, "that a man may drink and still be honest."

"How did you come to get drunk?" he asked, turning to Trotert.

"Well, your honor, I was out Saturday night spending that reward money."

The case was dismissed.

MICHIGAN "U" PRESIDENT ARRESTED AS SPEEDER

FOND DU LAC, Wis.—M. L. Burton, president of the University of Michigan, was arrested on highway 15, just south of this city on Monday by Motorcycle Officer Ed Schlaak on a charge of speeding.

President and Mrs. Burton, their son, Paul, and daughters, Theodosia and Jane, all of Ann Arbor, and Dr. George R. Stuart of Pasadena, Calif., were on their way to the summer home of President Burton at Cass Lake, Minn.

The sum of $25 was left at the municipal county court by President Burton for his appearance. Later the charge was dropped.

COMEDY PLUS DRAMA IN NEW RAY MOVIE

A new Charles Ray—humorous, whimsical and magnetic as ever, but with a full flowering of dramatic ability to move audiences deeply that few have known to exist—was revealed at the Rivoli Theater yesterday, when the star's second production for United Artists, "The Girl I Loved," swept across the screen with striking effect.

In this photoplay Ray appears in the guise of one of America's most famous figures, the poet James Whitcomb Riley in young manhood. Riley had a tragic love affair in youth which he related in the verses from which this film-drama is made, and Ray has not only translated the facts and their implications into a series of thrilling incidents but acted them with great power.

Patsy Ruth Miller, the girl, has remarkable beauty and unmistakable dramatic instinct. She will be heard from on her own account. Ramsey Wallace and Edythe Chapman are also members of a strong cast.

STRAND—TODAY

With the widespread success of her last two vehicles "Gay and Devilish" and "The Understudy" still echoing throughout the country, Doris May comes again to broadcast merriment in "Up and At 'Em" another fast moving comic vehicle. It is being shown at the Strand Theatre today.

Doris May's comedy possibilities have developed amazingly with her last few productions and she is heading swiftly for a position among the greatest of all comediennes. As in her preceding productions "Up and At 'Em" reveals Miss May in a sprightly, madcap sort of role that is certain to appeal to her thousands of admirers everywhere.

3 BROADWAY STARS IN "THE LAST MOMENT"

Three famous stars from Broadway's speaking stage were engaged by J. Parker Read, Jr., for his production of Jack Boyle's original screen story, "The Last Moment." These stars are Henry Hull, Doris Kenyon, and Louis Wolheim. They may be seen at the Majestic theatre for three days, beginning today, when "The Last Moment," distributed by Goldwyn, will be the attraction there.

The story is a gripping tale of melodramatic adventure, mostly on board a schooner commanded by a brutal, bootlegging captain known as "The Finn." On board are three persons of culture and good breeding—"Nap" Cameron, a timorous youth whose adventures have always been found in books; Alice Winthrop, willful and charming, with whom he is in love, and Harry Gaines, his rival. They had been shanghaied when visiting a water-front grog-shop on an errand of mercy.

Doris Kenyon is equally well known as star on the stage and the screen. Henry Hull acted the lead in "The Cat and the Canary" for a season at the National theatre and Louis Wolheim took New York by storm as the Yankee stoker in the Provincetown Players' production of "The Hairy Ape" by Eugene O'Neill.

STRAND—FRIDAY and SATURDAY

For some time we have classed Viola Dana in the front ranks of film comediennes, but since seeing her in her latest Metro vehicle "Her Fatal Millions," we have decided that classing her in the front ranks is not quite enough. She needs a special little niche all her own. Her charm, her vivacity, her rollicking fun are distinctive. She's like no other actress on the screen.

We can hardly imagine any other actress we know playing the role of Mary in "Her Fatal Millions," with such verve and realism. Miss Dana has been surrounded by an exceptionally fine cast. Huntly Gordon plays the part of Fred Garrison, Allan Forrest is seen as Lew Carmody, the villain of the story; Edward Connelly impersonates Amos Bishop, Mary's "husband." "Her Fatal Millions" comes to the Strand Friday and Saturday.

It has been figured out by a Londoner with a penchant for statistics that the average amount of money spent by the American tourist in England is $1,500.

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN AND M'GREGOR WILL CELEBRATE FOURTH

American Legion Posts of Two Towns Will Sooperate in Staging Celebration

PRAIRIE DU CHIEN, Wis.—There may be inter-town jealousy among older folks in neighboring communities here and there but not among the "buddies," if the attitude of the Prairie du Chien post of the American Legion toward the post at McGregor, Iowa in the matter of a 4th of July celebration, is a criterion.

McGregor, on the opposite side of the Mississippi from Prairie du Chien, is to be provided a regular old-fashioned 4th of July celebration by its local post. The Prairie du Chien post had planned the same sort of doings for Prairie, but has dropped the plan.

Here's why, as stated in an open letter from the Prairie Legion to the McGregor Legion:

"The Alva A. Caya Post No. 68 of the American Legion has canceled the proposed July 4th celebration to be held here, as the outcome of a committee meeting.

"The Legion decided, out of respect to the fine assistance of McGregor given Prairie du Chien during the Pageant (the celebration held at Prairie du Chien June 17th on the 250th anniversary of the discovery of the Mississippi by Joliet and Marquette) to cancel the celebration here July 4th.

"We feel that our close neighbors across the river deserve our largest patronage in helping celebrate this year. The Legion's greatest purpose is service, and if we can cooperate closely with the McGregor Legion in their 4th of July effort, some good will come of it."

CYLINDER GRINDING

When a motor has lost its power, lacks compression, pumps oil, fouls its plugs, develops a knock or piston slap and consumes oil and gasoline out of proportion to the service rendered, it's a sure sign the cylinder needs re-grinding and fitting with over-sized pistons and rings. These conditions are caused by cylinders which have become worn out-of-round and taper. To overcome these troubles, the cylinders must be reground.

FORD SPECIAL—Ford cylinders reground and fitted with oversize pistons, wrist pins, bushings and rings, complete, $16.00.

All work guaranteed. Prices reasonable.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK—Short covering operations resulted in some sharp gains at the opening of Thursday's stock market, but heaviness continued in a number of stocks sold on weakened marginal accounts. Du Pont, which dropped 9½ Wednesday, snapped back three points and Remington Typewriter, New York Central and Union Pacific each opened a point or more higher. United States Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker and American Can improved fractionally on initial sales.

The market presented a spotty appearance during the early trading with a score of new low records for the year being established during the first half hour, including Kelly-Springfield, Producers and Refiners, Famous Players, American Car and Maxwell Motors "A" and "B". Most of the rails advanced but Lackawanna dropped 1½ and Norfolk and Southern two. Chandler and Mack Truck each dropped about 1½. American Woolen advanced 2¾. Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower.

The closing was strong. Short covering operations and fresh buying continued in the late dealings in which the best prices of the day were recorded. Sales approximated 1,250,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Ill.—Aggressive buying together with scantiness of country offerings gave a decided lift to the price of wheat Thursday during the early dealings. The buying was based chiefly on estimates that in the last two days as much as 4,000,000 bushels in future deliveries had been taken for seaboard account. The fact that Liverpool quotations virtually failed outright to reflect Wednesday's sharp setback here formed an additional bullish influence. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅛ to 1½c higher, with September $1.02¼ to $1.03¼ and December $1.05 to $1.05¾, were followed by some further gains.

Export demand at the seaboard Thursday was said to be only fair, but commission house buying here acted as a check on bears. The close was unsettled ⅞ to 1⅝c net higher, with September $1.02⅞ to $1.03 and December $1.05⅜ to $1.05½.

Notwithstanding wheat strength, demand for corn was lacking, bears contending that corn prices were too high. After opening at ⅛c decline to a like advance September 77¾ to 78⅛c, the market underwent a material setback all around.

Subsequently pressure to sell lessened and losses in price were partly overcome. The market closed unsettled at ½ to ⅞c net decline. September 77½ to 77⅝c.

Oats were affected more by the action of wheat than of corn. Oats started unchanged to ⅛c higher, September 37½c and later held near to the initial range.

Provisions were easier with hogs and corn.

SENATE VOTES FOR AN INVESTIGATION OF TAX SITUATION

Adopt Resolution With Amendment Providing for Probe of Means of Reducing Taxes

MILLION DOLLAR CATTLE T. B. BILL SENT BACK TO ASSEMBLY

Senate Rejects Surtax Amendment Adopted by House

MADISON, Wis.—The senate on Wednesday afternoon voted to appoint a committee to investigate the tax situation in Wisconsin during the next two years with a view of finding what changes, if any, are needed in the present system.

The original resolution was introduced by Senator Czerwinski but an amendment by Senator Skogmo was added that provided that the committee also investigate ways of reducing taxes.

Senator Severson declared that everybody knows that the way to reduce taxes is to spend less money and that it was not necessary to spend two years to find this out. The tax commission has all information that could be wanted along this line, he said.

The $1,000,000 appropriation bill to fight bovine tuberculosis was passed in the assembly with an amendment providing that the amount be raised by a surtax on incomes. The senate on Wednesday rejected this amendment 21 to 12 and the bill was then sent back to the house.

Senator O. H. Johnson's bill providing a $500 exemption for all Wisconsin homes passed the upper house 17 to 16 and was immediately messaged to the assembly.

This measure would mean a shrinkage of valuation of taxable property of $172,000,000, according to members of the tax commission, and it would mean that taxes would be reduced $8,550,000.

A bill by Senator Severson to cut out continuing appropriation for the Wisconsin National guard was killed. Senator Timothy Burke claimed that this bill was the result of "Russian" influences.

Cocoanut Oil Makes A Splendid Shampoo

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this cannot possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure and ask for "Mulsified."
